

Attention Boaters!

North Harbor Dredging Project Commencing October 3, 2016

Four areas of the north harbor will be dredged commencing in early-October, using the dredge Squirt. A 10" diameter plastic pipeline may be on and just under the surface of the water at times. It is black and difficult to see, and can create an obstruction to navigation. Mariners should be observant of the pipeline and equipment hazards in the area and navigate slowly and cautiously. Access may be restricted at times. Vessels displaced during dredging operations will be returned to their slips when dredging operations are complete. The maps below depict four general areas where dredging will be performed, and the anticipated pipeline configuration:
